GORMAN'S BROADSIDE.

The Maryland Senator Vigorously Assails the President.

HE CHARGES BREACH OF FAITH.

A Pointed Defense of the Senate Compromise as the Best Measure That Could Pass the Higher Body—Corroborated by Senators Vest, Jones and Harris.

WASHINGTON, July 24 — Perhaps no more remarkable scene was ever witnessed in the United States senate than that which occurred there yesterday when for two and a half hours Senator Gorman the Democratic political leader on the floor, delivered his speech against the president and in defense of the senate tariff bill The galleries were packed to the doors and so great was the interest in Mr Gorman's speech that the members of the house flocked to the senate end of the Capitol and the house, being unable to hold a quorum, adjourned Among those who listened most earnestly to Mr. Gorman was Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister, who was in the diplomatic gallery His references to the president created such commotion in the galleries, sometimes of approval and sometimes of disapproval that the presiding officer was obliged to repeatedly caution them to preserve better order He was listened to with rapt attention through out his speech, a deep feeling of excitement being printed on every face

Mr. Gorman, with a frankness that amazed those present, discussed party secrets, opened the door to party caucuses, and flashed his search light into the dark corners of party history The president was assailed with keenness and vigor by the leader of his party on the floor of the senate He defended the senate tariff bill and its preparation, and charged in most positive terms that both Mr Carlisle and Mr. Cleveland were lotally aware of the concessions made in that bill to procure its passage through the senate, but that Mr. Carlisle had been consulted at every step and that Mr Cleveland had sanctioned all that was done Mr Gorman is a cool, easy talker but he gives to tone and gesture a dramatic effect that thrills the auditor Yesterday he was at his best One by one he called Senators Vest, Jones and Harris as witnesses to the truth of his statements, and these gentlemen corroborated him Then, having freed himself from all restraint, he told the inside history of the conference over the bill He even went back and told the secrets of the Mills bill and the St Louis and Chicago platforms, and the demands made upon the national Democratic committee by the sugar senators in 1892

His personal attack on the president was full of the most sensational characterizations He told how he had dared when other people faltered, to walk with Cleveland through "the filth and slime of the campaign of 1884," how he and his colleagues had fought for tariff reform "when cowards in high places would not show their heads," how Mr Cleveland had tried to "robbet the senate before the eyes of the country," and said that his action must be attributed to "consuming vanity," an action that was echoed by those who "chirped when they barked"

After Senators Vest Jones and Harris had corroborated Mr Gorman's statement that the house had removed the senate compromise "the Maryland senator" speaking of that conference continued

"It did much to unite the Democratic forces together forty-three senators in that day I repeat that not for a long time have we ever should have succeeded in bringing together But I am not at present prepared to go into the secretary of the treasury, who, it was said, was not the president in order to secure the co-operation of the chairman of the committee on finance, promised amendments which were well known to many senators As to any compromise measure I will say that after a single secretary of the treasury on the side of the chairman of the finance committee I assert as a whole that the structure as presented was the very best that it was possible to pass through this body

"As I have said, sir, this is a most extraordinary proceeding for a Democrat elected to the highest place in the government to join with the committee to traduce the senate of the United States, to blacken the characters of senators who are as honorable as they dare to be, who are as patriotic as they ever can be, who have done as much to serve their party as the men who are now the beneficiaries of your labor and mine to taunt and jeer us before the country as the advocates of trusts, as being guilty of dishonor and perfidy. It is time to speak. The limit of endurance has been reached. The senate owes it to itself. Every senator here who is a part of this Democratic majority owes it to himself.

"There is no power, no matter how great, in this country, the president with his patronage, that would keep me silent longer under the charges, under the imputations so foully made from such distinguished quarters I hurl it back to him and say that this treatment of his fellows is infamous. It is destructive to the government that men in high positions should attempt to lower this body. No man can reach here by devious ways and remain long. It is composed of men who represent the best thought of the country, men who have stood and battled for tariff reform when the cowards in higher places dared not show their heads; men who, when another place was overrun and they had not the courage to stand and fight a tyrant, stood here at the risk of health, at the risk of fortune, of all that is dear, and saved the liberties of the country when those cowards could not be seen We will not be traduced longer, Mr. President, the facts must come.

"We have seen how this bill passed the senate, how only it could pass the senate No man, whether in this or in another place, no matter what his position may be, who styles himself a Democrat who believes in his party, can change materially this measure without defeating it. Who dare take that responsibility?

"I can imagine no man who would do it unless he was consumed with vanity and desired to set his judgment above that of his fellows or a desire to keep an issue before the people that he might ride into power rather than give content and peace and labor and prosperity to his fellow countrymen.

"I was not in favor of Mr. Cleveland's nomination again in 1892 as a matter of policy, but I, with the distinguished senator from Ohio (Mr. Brice) and the distinguished senator from New York (Mr Hill), who carried the battle flag in that state, and the senator from North Carolina (Ransom), never permitted anything to stop our efforts until we placed him in this high station We did it with an admiration for the man, with a belief that he would serve his country well, but I did it above all in order that we might have Democratic control in this government.

"Louisiana through its two senators (Gibson and White) wanted to know before we entered upon the campaign—with no threat, with no inquiry except that which an honorable man had a right to make—what the policy of the party was to be under the apparently free trade resolutions adopted at Chicago After a great deal of talk, after the most careful consideration, that candidate of our party told them as he told the public through his letter that the Democratic party was not to destroy industries, that it should place a fair duty upon dutiable articles, a revenue duty, that the bill which had met his approval was the Mills bill, and on the line of the Mills bill the Democratic party would act The junior senator from New Jersey (Mr Smith), Mr Brice and myself did that giving our time and our money and everything that man can give for the success of the party.

"In all my public career no man has ever charged me with perfidy No soul can say that I ever made a promise about public or private matters that I did not carry out if I had the power to do it These two senators and myself carrying out the pledge of our party whose candidate was the real leader as three men who were in a sugar trust It is due sir, to those with whom I am associated to say that no man here would believe such a thing, but it is due to the man who writes the history that he shall have the truth of the transaction

"What is our duty? What did we agree to do? We placed in your hands, Mr Chairman, and you Democrats the power to say what we ought to do after careful and unfettered conference. No such confidence on the part of all our party has ever been given to men as we gave to you Let this degree of confidence continue Let this bill go back to a conference on the part of the two houses These thunder clouds will roll by, these flashes of lightning, these exhibitions of temper, all must clear the atmosphere and enable the conferees to give new hope and new life to the American people"

Senator Gorman practically warned his colleagues that on the material points it must be the senate bill or no bill

Mr White, of California was the only other speaker of the day While personally in favor of free coal and free iron ore he, too, declared it to be the part of patriotism for the Democrats to stand together for the senate bill After he concluded the senate adjourned with the situation seemingly as chaotic a state as ever

Death of Paterson's First Mayor.

PATERSON, N. J., July 24 —Ex-Mayor John J Brown died yesterday afternoon He was president of the First National bank of Paterson, with which he had been connected since 1867, as well as a director of the Paterson Savings Institution, the Cedar Lawn Cemetery association and the Paterson and Passaic Horse Railroad company He served on the board of aldermen when the incorporation of Paterson was being accomplished and in 1856 was elected the first mayor In 1857 he served as the representative of Passaic county in the state assembly

A Grand Feature

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that while it purifies the blood and sends it coursing through the veins full of richness and health, it also imparts new life and vigor to every function of the body. Hence the expression so often heard: "Hood's Sarsaparilla made a new person of me." It overcomes that tired feeling so common now.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, always reliable and beneficial.

Ladies Who Bloat.

What a great number there are, now uncomfortable it makes them; it is almost impossible for those afflicted to enjoy life. In my private practice I have always found Sulphur Bitters to be the best remedy. All who are thus troubled should use it. MRS. DR CHILDS, Boston.

FIVE RAILROAD WRECKS

Fourteen People Killed and a Number of Others Injured.

NORTH BEND, O., July 24 —The Chicago express No 12, on the Big Four, collided with a freight engine at Griffiths, killing Fireman Frank Taylor on the freight engine and Charles Sherman and Richard Tudor, two tramps on the head end of the mail car; also badly injuring Engineer Sam Hart on the freight engine. Mail Clerk Tuck received several bad bruises, but is not dangerously hurt. Several passengers were also injured None of the injured are disabled except Engineer Hart, who is in a dangerous condition at the hospital

FORT WAYNE Ind., July 24 —A Grand Rapids and Indiana passenger train, south bound was wrecked at midnight at La Otto by some one who had driven a stake into a frog While the engine passed over safely, the tender, smoker and baggage car left the track Seventy-five Fort Wayne excursionists were on the train The officials of the company say that the people were only bruised.

TEXARKANA, Tex., July 24 —Limited reports reach here of a serious wreck on the Texas and Pacific railroad near Queen City, Tex., in which the engineer Express Messenger Fred Marshal, Fireman Allen and the train porter, together with three passengers, whose names are unobtainable, were killed A relief train left here for the scene of the disaster

ROCHESTER N Y, July 24 —An extra freight train running north on the Northern Central railroad, consisting of twenty-eight cars, was wrecked at Havan last night and Brakeman Dan Wright, of Elmira, killed. Two tramps, three boys and a one-armed man, all of whose names are unknown, were more or less injured

LONGVIEW, Tex., July 24 —A head end collision occurred between trains running at full speed round a sharp curve 200 yards west of Forest Engineer A D Crumlin, of Texarkana, Express Messenger Fred Marshall, of Fort Worth, and an unknown passenger were killed

Dastardly Work of Dynamiters

UNIONTOWN, Pa July 24 —Dynamiters made an attempt to blow up the town of Dunbar At 1 o'clock in the morning a large bomb was exploded under the house of a non-union workman named Vaugan, in the center of town The building was blown to pieces and the larger portion of the town was badly shaken by the explosion Windows were broken all over the borough and chimneys thrown from their position The family escaped without injury A short time later a dynamite bomb was found under the house of William Boden, another non unionist. The bomb did not explode.

Striking Ohio Potters Resume.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 24.—Every pottery in East Liverpool resumed work yesterday, after the longest strike in the history of the business in the Ohio valley. Two weeks hence East Liverpool will again be the busy beehive of industry she was a year ago, and for which she was famous throughout the country The shop committee reports that all firms are resuming with remarkably little friction and the work of settling minor difference is left with the shop committees.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the Grippe in past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures not only in cases of La Grippe, but in all Diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs, and has cured cases of Asthma and Hay Fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free Trial Bottles at McMonagle & Rogers's drug store

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness."—Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 752 New St., Camden, N. J. 25c. DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

Four Persons Lose Their Lives in Otsego Lake.

MAN AND BOY DROWNED IN IDAHO.

In the Otsego Lake Accident Father, Mother and Son Were Drowned While Rowing a Book Agent Across—Dragging the Lake for Dead Bodies.

COOPERSTOWN, N Y, July 24.—A quadruple drowning occurred on Otsego lake yesterday afternoon The victims were Mr. and Mrs J. R Edwards and son and a book agent whose name is unknown. The Edwards family recently came from Bainbridge to live in a house about four miles up on the west side of the lake. They started in a rowboat with the object of taking the agent across the lake to Hyde Hill, eight miles up Subsequently the boat, with four persons clinging to it, was seen about a third of a mile from the shore off Hatter's point, five and a half miles up the lake Boats put out to the rescue, but when they reached the scene the four people had disappeared.

Two hats, the agent's notebook and an empty whisky bottle were found in the boat It is surmised that the contents of the bottle were responsible for the accident, as at no time during the day had the water been rough The lake is being dragged, but the bodies have not yet been recovered The lake at the place where the accident occurred is from 160 to 180 feet deep Mr. and Mrs Edwards leave two married children and two others aged 14 and 12 years

Fatal Cloudburst in Mexico.

SALTILLO, Mex., July 24 —Advices have reached here of a cloudburst in the mountains of the Prieta district, southwest of this city A number of houses of ranchmen and sheep herds were washed away by the torrent of water that rushed down the mountain ravines and fifteen deaths of men by drowning have already been reported.

Drowned While Swimming Horses.

HARRISON, Idaho, July 24 — Frank Brammel, aged 21 and Alfred Mott, aged 18, of Pullman, Wash., were drowned in St. Joe lake while swimming horses. Frank was a son of President Brammel, of the Farmers and Traders' bank and Alfred was a son of A W. Mott, a merchant.

Puddlers on Strike.

PITTSBURG, July 24 —Only two furnaces in the Sligo mill were on yesterday, all the old puddlers having failed to report for duty. The cause of the strike is given by the men to be that the mill owners violated the contract entered into three months ago, when the men returned to work at $3 60 with the understanding that at the end of the three months they were to receive 10 per cent of the earnings The company now claims that there is no money to divide with the men, and the workers thinking differently have gone on strike.

Fatal Fire in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed fifteen frame cottages on Vanborne street between Leavitt and Oakley One man was burned to death and another injured during the fire The man burned was Moritz Arkia, whose body was found under a pile of debris burned to a crisp Frank Stack was badly burned about the head and body, but will probably recover

TRAIN WRECKERS CAUGHT.

Two Hundred Citizens of a Kansas Town Arrested by Soldiers.

WICHITA, Kan., July 24. — A special from Pond Creek states that nearly two hundred of the citizens have been arrested for train wrecking. The arrests were made by seven deputy marshals, backed by a car load of federal soldiers. At first the Pond Creek lookouts stationed on the top of buildings saw twenty soldiers marching from Pond Creek station, and so reported.

The citizens took their Winchesters in high glee to give them battle, but while they were drawn up in line waiting for the soldiers to demand their surrender two unexpected companies of soldiers rolled off a train that had just came from another direction in great haste. The citizens then grounded arms and surrendered. It is said that when the soldiers were putting the citizens under arrest other citizens, with vengeance in their hearts, rode out of town hastily, and it is expected that they are scattered along the unprotected line of road, applying the torch to bridges and culverts.

May Resume with Negro Miners.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., July 24.—Another mass meeting of miners in the Houtzdale district will be held in that place this afternoon to hear the report of the committee selected from among the Berwind White Coal Mining company's employes who had a conference with officials of the company yesterday afternoon at Philadelphia The result of the conference will not be made public until the meeting. As the work erecting additional barracks at Atlantic mines has continued all day it is surmised that the company did not yield from its position not to pay more than forty cents a ton. Should the meeting not result in declaring the strike off a large number of negroes will probably be set to work in the mines tomorrow morning.

Governor Tillman's Proclamation.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 24.—Governor Tillman, in his proclamation ordering the reopening of the state dispensaries on Aug 1, says: "The law will be enforced in accordance with my oath of office, until the court shall have passed upon the same, or until the legislature shall have repealed it. All persons interested, including public carriers, are notified that importation of liquors will be at the risk of seizure and prosecution, and all contraband liquors found in the borders of the state will be seized and confiscated according to law."

Wanted to Drive Out the Dutch.

CLEVELAND July 24.—A crank called at the city hall and demanded to see the lord mayor, saying that he had been ingulfed by the Dutch, and demanded that every one of that nationality be driven out of the country. A patrol wagon call had been meantime sent in, and when the officers arrived there was a fearful struggle between the men The crank seemed to have the strength of a Sampson. He was finally placed in the wagon and later registered at the police station as Henry J. Vilke, Baltimore, Md.

Sustaining the Anti-Anarchist Bill.

PARIS, July 24 —In the chamber of deputies, when M Dupuy made his proposition to the chamber asking for the rejection of all amendments to the government's anti-anarchist measure, M Goblet, M Brisson and others made vehement protests, declaring that the demand was unconstitutional and of the nature of a fresh second of December. In spite of these protests all the amendments were offered and were promptly rejected, the government majorities ranging from 320 to 147

A Policeman Murderously Assaulted.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 24. — Policeman Philip Burkhart attempted to arrest one of a drunken crowd of fighters last night when the gang murderously assaulted him He fired in self defense and hit John McEnany two inches below the heart McEnany is a boiler maker, who came here recently from Baltimore. The had was extracted at the hospital and he will probably recover. The policeman was badly cut about the head and face.

Raiding Knights of the Road.

JENKINTOWN, Pa., July 24 —The borough officers had a big haul of tramps and locked a dozen of them in the lockup. They were arraigned before Burgess Harmer, who committed some and committed others until The people have become annoyed by petty thieving, and it is thought the knights of the road were responsible for a good deal of it.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. The druggists all sell it.

THE TRIAL OF DEBS.

He and His Associates Before the United States Court.

THE DEFENSE A GENERAL DENIAL.

Efforts of the Defendants' Attorneys to Have the Cases Dismissed—Judge Grosscup Declares Debs' Telegraphic Orders Were the Cause of Violent Outbreaks.

CHICAGO, July 24 —An answer was filed yesterday by the attorney for the officers of the American Railway union in the contempt proceedings in the United States court growing out of the alleged violation of the federal injunction against interference with the mails and interstate commerce The answer which was formulated by Attorneys W W Erwin, of St. Paul, and S S Gregory of Chicago is a general denial of the various charges against them

A great crowd of spectators thronged the corridors of the federal building and struggled for places in the court room when the hearing began United States Judges Woods and Grosscup occupied the bench and immediately after taking their seats ordered the court room cleared of the crowd which stood in the aisles and about the door Mrs Debs Mrs Keliher and Mrs Rogers were in court early and greeted the four prisoners when they were brought in

The prosecution was represented by District Attorney Milchrist Special Counsel Edwin Walker and Assistant District Attorney Hand while the Santa Fe railroad was represented by ex-Corporation Counsel John Miller and E A Bancroft

Attorney Gregory opened the main case with the suggestion that the hearing of Debs and the others be postponed until after the trial under the indictments pending against them But the suggestion was not entertained by the court

After the reading of the information against the prisoners by the district attorney and the hearing of the answer as read by the defendants lawyer, Attorney Erwin moved formally that the defendants be dismissed He also asked that the government elect whether it would try the prisoners on the original indictment or on the injunction Judge Woods replied that the government would elect by going on now and Attorney Gregory began his argument in support of the motion to dismiss the bill

Mr Gregory went on to argue that as this was a criminal proceeding an answer under oath that he was not guilty was all the defense a person cited for criminal contempt could be called upon to make He could be tried for crime only by a jury Proceedings of this kind should not be resorted to or permitted to take the place of the laws of the land. The court should decide in favor of liberty

"The doctrine of this injunction is," interrupted Judge Woods, "that it is not to be used to restrain crime Injunctions are not issued for that purpose, yet an order may be entered to restrain acts which involve crime. The court acted on that theory

Mr Gregory resuming, said the injunction restrained the defendants from preventing the employes by threats, intimidation force violence or persuasion from performing their duties, or inducing them by threats violence force or intimidation to leave the service of the roads. In the connection of [illegible] the word persuasion was [illegible]

This caused another statement from Judge Woods, who said the court had refused to enjoin men from soliciting other men to leave their work The question is now in the court of appeals in the Northern Pacific case and the court had no desire to interfere with it Mr Gregory said the injunction did not enjoin the leaders of the union from advising men to quit work. "The injunction," said Judge Woods, "was a general order not to interfere with the operation of the roads Whether advising was an interference is a question to be decided"

The attorney contended that as long as people obeyed the laws they could not be held responsible for the lawlessness of others He admitted that there was violence in the recent strike and the men who committed it were guilty of violating the injunction The people who did violence were also guilty, but there was not a line in the information that the defendants either committed or advised any violent acts

Judge Grosscup said the theory of the government was that violence was the natural consequences of the telegraphic orders sent by the defendants

Mr Gregory was followed by Mr. Walker, for the prosecution, who attacked the answer vigorously He said the answer was not a full reply to the charges in the information It denied all knowledge of the telegrams with one exception, and the government would like to have the opportunity to show that there was an answer received to each message and that it was received by the officers of the railway union All the strike orders which had resulted in the stoppage of commerce and the mails came from the office of the union in Chicago, and they were responsible for everything that happened in consequence even to the loss of life He said an answer in a contempt proceeding was sufficient to [illegible] but that common law [illegible] the court could [illegible] At the conclusion of Mr Walker's argument court took a recess

A WOOD SONG.

A sylvan path, a forest aisle,
Romantic, dim retreat,
Where love may stroll a quiet mile
And hear no passing feet.

A day in May, when sunbeams fall
A-sleep upon the ground,
While soothing minstrels faintly call
To dreams of bliss they've found.

A weary heart bowed down with care,
Indifferent to woe,
Seeking a breath of solace where
The sweet crabapples grow.

But not the breeze, the bloom, the birds,
Conjured his soul that day,
A gentle maid of simple words
His sorrow charmed away.

THE WRECK.

As the violent storm of the other night has thrown us on the Corsican coast, let me tell you a terrible story of the sea, of which the fishermen of the place often speak at eventide, and about which chance has enabled me to learn strange particulars.

It was three years ago. I was sailing the Sardinian sea with seven or eight sailors of the coast survey. It was a rough voyage for a novice; we did not have one good day through March. The wind was furious, and the waves never calmed. One evening as we were flying before the tempest our vessel came for refuge to the mouth of the strait of Bonifacio, among some little islands.

Their aspect was not alluring. They were great bald rocks, covered with birds, some bushes of lentisk, a few tufts of absinthe and here and there in the slime decaying pieces of wood. But, my soul! it was better to pass the night among these sinister rocks than to be on a frail old bark, half decked, where the blast came in as though it were quite at home. So we contented ourselves.

No sooner had we disembarked than the sailors lighted a fire for the fish soup, and the captain called me, pointing to a little inclosure surrounded by a white wall almost lost in the mist at the end of the island. "Will you come to the cemetery?" said he.

"A cemetery, captain! Where are we?"

"On the Lavezzi islands, monsieur. The 600 men of the frigate Semillante are buried here at the spot where she was lost 10 years ago. Poor fellows! As they don't receive many visits, the least we can do is to go and say 'bonjour' to them, so long as we are here."

"With all my heart, captain."

How sad it was, the cemetery of the Semillante! I see it still, with its little, low wall; its iron door, rusty and hard to open; its silent chapel, the hundreds of black crosses hidden by the weeds. Not one wreath of immortelles, not one souvenir—nothing! Ah, the poor, abandoned dead! How cold they must be in their chance tombs!

We staid a moment kneeling. The captain prayed aloud. Enormous gulls, the only guardians of the cemetery, circled over our heads, mingling their hoarse cries with the wailing of the sea. The prayer finished, we came sadly back to the corner of the island where the bark was anchored. No time had been lost during our absence. We found a great fire flaming in the shelter of a rock and the soup smoking. Sitting down in a circle, with our feet to the flames, soon each had on his knees a bowl of red pottery, in which were two slices of black bread covered plentifully with the broth. The repast was a silent one. We were wet, we were hungry, and then the nearness of the graveyard!

However, when the bowls were emptied, we lighted our pipes and talked a little—naturally of the Semillante.

"Tell me, how did it happen?" I asked the captain, who, with his head on his hands, stared at the flames with a thoughtful air.

"How did it happen?" said the good Lionetti, with a heavy sigh. "Alas, no human being can tell! All we know is that the Semillante, laden with troops, left Toulon the evening before in bad weather. During the night it grew worse—wind, rain and a terrible sea, the like of which was never seen before. In the morning the wind fell a little, but the sea was worse, if possible, and with it the devil's own fog, so that one could not have distinguished a beacon light four feet away. Those fogs, monsieur! You have no idea how deceitful they are. But I also have an idea that the Semillante must have lost her helm in the morning, for the captain even in a heavy fog could hardly have made such a mistake. He was a well tried mariner. We all knew him. He had commanded the Corsican station for three years and knew the coast as well as I, who know nothing else."

"At what time do they think the Semillante perished?"

"It must have been at noon—yes, monsieur, noon—but, forsooth, with that fog that noon was worth no more than a night as black as the jaws of a wolf. A life saver of the coast told me that the same day toward half past 11, having gone out of his cabin to fasten his shutters, the wind whirled away his cap, and at the risk of being carried off himself by the blast he commenced to crawl along the beach on all fours after it. You see the dounaiers aren't rich, and a cap costs. Well, it seems that our man, lifting his head, saw right near him through the fog a great ship scudding along under bare poles toward the Lavezzi islands. This ship went very fast, so fast that he had hardly time for a good look. Everything leads to the belief that it was the Semillante, because a half hour later the shepherd of the island heard— Why, here comes the shepherd himself. He will tell you. Bonjour, Paloraio. Come, warm thyself. Have no fear."

A muffled man, whom I had seen for some minutes prowling around our fire, and whom I had taken for one of the crew, because I did not know that there was a shepherd on the island, approached us timidly. He was an old leper, three-quarters an idiot and a prey to I know not what other scorbutic evil, which made his lips horrible to behold, so swollen were they. They explained to him at length what we were talking about. Then, lifting his dreadful lips with his finger, the old man said that on the day in question, about noon, he heard from his hut a frightful crash on the rocks, but as the island was covered with water he could not get out to see. It was not until the next morning that on opening his door he had seen the beach covered with driftwood and corpses, left there by the waves. Insane with fear, he had fled to his boat to go to Bonifacio for help.

Tired with having said so much, the shepherd sat down, and the captain went on with his story.

"Yes, monsieur, it was this poor old fellow who came to warn us. He was crazy with fright, and ever since his brain has been off the track. To tell the truth, there was cause enough for it. Imagine 600 hundred corpses in heaps on the sand, mixed with great timbers and strips of sail. Poor Semillante! The sea had crushed her into crumbs with one blow. Palombo with difficulty got enough wood to build a fence around his hut. As for the men, nearly all were horribly disfigured and mutilated. It was pitiful to see them clinging together in bunches. We found the captain in a gala uniform, the chaplain with his stole. In a corner between two rocks there was a little cabin boy with his eyes open. One might have thought him alive; but, no, it had been decreed that not one should escape." Here he stopped.

"Careful, Nardi," said he; "the fire is going out."

Nardi threw two or three tarred logs on the embers, which quickly blazed again.

Lionetti continued: "The saddest part of the story is yet to come. Three weeks before the disaster a little cutter, which was going to the Crimea, like the Semillante, was wrecked in the same way in nearly the same place, only this time we managed to save the crew and 20 soldiers who were on board. We took them to Bonifacio and kept them there at the station with us for two days.

"Once thoroughly dry and on foot again, it was goodby, good luck. They returned to Toulon, from which port they embarked again several days later for the Crimea. And imagine on what ship! On the Semillante. We found them all—all 20—lying among the dead just where we are now. I picked up myself a handsome brigadier, with a long blond mustache, a stripling from Paris, whom I had taken to my own house, and who made us laugh all the time with his stories. To see him there crushed me. O holy mother!"

Thereupon the good Lionetti, much moved, shook the cinders from his pipe, and rolling himself in his cape wished me good night.

For some time longer the sailors whispered among themselves. Then, one after the other, the pipes went out. No one spoke. The old shepherd hobbled away, and I was left alone to dream away the hours in the middle of the sleeping crew.

Still under the influence of the lugubrious tale which I had heard, I tried to rebuild in my fancy the poor departed ship and the story of this agony of which the sea gulls were the only witnesses. Several details which had struck me—the captain in gala dress, the chaplain's stole, the 20 soldiers—helped me to imagine all the scenes of the drama. I saw the frigate leaving Toulon in the night. She loses sight of the port. The sea is bad, the wind high. The captain is a valiant officer, and every one on board is undisturbed. In the morning a mist rises from the sea. They commence to be uneasy. All the crew are on deck. The captain does not leave the bridge. Between decks, where the soldiers are shut up, it is dark; the air is close. Some are ill, lying on their knapsacks. The ship pitches horribly. It is impossible to stand up. Sitting on the floor, talking in groups, they cling to the benches. It is necessary to shout to be heard. Some begin to be frightened. Listen, then. Wrecks are frequent in the waters. The sailors are there to say so, and what they say is not reassuring. Their brigadier, too, a Parisian who always talks wildly, makes their flesh creep with his jokes. "A wreck! Oh, a wreck is amusing, very. We will be well out of it after our iced bath. Then they will take us to Bonifacio to eat blackbirds with old Lionetti."

Suddenly a crash. What is it? What can it be?

"The helm is gone," cries a dripping sailor who goes running between decks. "Bon voyage!" shouts that madman, the brigadier. But no one laughs now. A great tumult on the bridge. The fog prevents their seeing one another. The sailors go and come, groping along frightened. The helm is gone. It is impossible to guide the ship. The Semillante, adrift, flies before the wind. It is at this moment that the dounaier sees her pass. It is half after 11. Just ahead they hear, like the roar of cannon, the breakers! The breakers! It is finished. There is no hope. They are going straight on the rocks. The captain goes down to his cabin. He comes up in a moment to take his place on the bridge in his full uniform. He wishes to meet death in brave attire.

Between decks the soldiers, in mortal terror, gaze at one another without a word. The sick try to sit up; the little brigadier laughs no longer. Then the door opens, and the chaplain with his stole appears on the threshold.

"To your knees, my children!" All obey. In a ringing voice the priest begins the prayer for the dying.

Suddenly a fearful shock, a great cry, upstretched arms, clinging hands, wild eyes, before which the vision of death has flashed. Miserere!

It was thus that I passed the night dreaming, bringing back through 10 years the souls who had perished in the poor ship whose debris surrounded me. Far away in the strait the tempest raged. The flame of the fire bent under the blast, and I heard our bark thrashing and straining at her moorings at the foot of the rocks.—Romance.

Your Laundress' Back, and her time, are not the only things that you save, if she uses Pearline. You'll get your clothes washed without that ruinous rub, rub, rub that wears them out quickly. It's a gain for her and a gain for you, and they're washed just as safely as they could be with the best soap—only a great deal more easily.

But see for yourself that what she uses is Pearline—the original washing-compound; the best; the one proved to be perfectly harmless. All these washing-powders that you're warned against are only imitations of Pearline. 406

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

Mr. Trumbull Has Not Accepted.

CHICAGO, July 24.—On Friday a telegram was received at the law office of Hon Lyman Trumbull, from President Cleveland, tendering Judge Trumbull a membership on the arbitration committee to investigate the railroad strikes. The dispatch was forwarded to Mackinaw, Mich., where Mr Trumbull is rusticating. As yet he has neither accepted nor declined the honor tendered him and what he will do in regard to the matter is an open question, though, owing to his advanced age, his acceptance is considered doubtful.

Escaped by Incendiarism.

PERRY, O. T., July 24.—A band of outlaws came down on this city during the night and set fire to some wooden houses. While the people were trying to put out the fire the band liberated the prisoners in the county jail. Among the prisoners who escaped are "Bud" Appling, alias "California Cyclone," a prize fighter who was in jail for bribing at elections, and Clay Davis, a member of the Dalton gang, who is one of the most noted horse thieves and outlaws of Oklahoma.

Fined for Laughing.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Emanuel Engstrom was fined $25 yesterday for laughing at bicycle bloomers. The bloomers belonged to Mrs. Jane McCollom. Mrs. McCollom was riding a cycle in Lincoln park. She testified that Engstrom hooted at her and made sport of her. Engstrom protested that he only laughed and did not hoot a single hoot. The court took the prosecution's version and fined the defendant.

Britannia Again a Winner.

QUEENSTOWN, July 24.—The race between the Vigilant and Britannia for the Royal Munster's cup was sailed yesterday, and resulted in a victory for the British boat. The distance, fifty miles, was covered by the Britannia in 4 h., 10 min., 15 secs.; Vigilant, 4 h., 11 min. Adding her estimated time allowance of a minute and 10 seconds, the British boat won by 1 minute and 55 seconds.

Troops Again Drive Out Commonwealers.

CLYDE, O., July 24.—Bakowski's Commonweal army arrived here and demanded food. This was refused by the mayor and the Commonwealers threatened violence. The mayor called out Company I. of the Fifth regiment, who drove the army out of town at the point of the bayonet.

Taken From His Bed and Lashed.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 24.—Shortly before daylight six masked men called George Herron from his bed at Burney's Station, east of here on the Big Four, tied him to a telegraph pole and gave him fifty-three lashes with beech switches.

Philadelphia Cricketers Ahead.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—In the cricket match yesterday between Philadelphia and Rosedale the home team went to bat first, putting up only 82 for the inning. Philadelphia scored 141. The match will be continued this afternoon.

Killed Her Husband in Self Defense.

MT. VERNON, Ind., July 24.—George Powell became intoxicated and attempted to cut his wife's throat. She broke away, seized a club and crushed his skull. The woman was arrested.

The Evicted Tenants Bill.

LONDON, July 24.—The evicted tenants' bill passed its second reading in the house of commons last evening by a vote of 302 to 267.

Foreign Miners on Strike

HAZLETON, Pa., July 24.—The breaker hands at Wentz & Co.'s Silver Brook colliery struck yesterday for an advance in wages. The operators continued to work the colliers with outside hands. It was anticipated that violent demonstrations would be indulged in and the coal and iron police were called out. Their presence intimidated the men and the day passed without incident. The strikers are mostly foreigners who are desperate when aroused and an outbreak is possible.

Steamboat Destroyed by Fire

NEWARK, N. J., July 24.—The steamboat Favorite owned by the Knickerbocker company of New York, built to ply between Newark and the Buffalo Bill show in Brooklyn was burned yesterday. Captain Churchill and the crew of the boat escaped, two of them having narrow escapes. The boat was worth about $50,000.

The Eastern Imbroglio:

LONDON, July 24.—No confirmation has been received of the alleged private dispatch sent out by a news agency reporting that Japanese gunboats had begun the bombardment of Corean ports. The various morning papers of London either ignore the report altogether or discredit it.

During the hot weather impurities in the blood may seriously annoy you. Expel them by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

A RECKLESS GENERAL.

How the Duke of Wellington Trifled With Great Danger.

One day the Duke of Wellington's French cook came to him for orders.

"Oh, get anything," said the Duke, impatiently. "I never think of what I put into my stomach."

The chief was horrified. Whether Wellington was punished with indigestion or not, history does not tell. One thing is certain. People who don't care what they eat soon find themselves unable to eat anything at all without agony. Their offended stomachs go on strike. Natural digestion ceases.

What is to be done, then? One cannot live without eating. The only possible help is in a pre-digested food, which science has furnished in the form of Paskola. It replaces wasted tissue and invigorates the entire system without aid from the stomach. Willard Hettrick, of Bridgeton, N. J., says:

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia and indigestion until I was induced by a friend as a last resort to try Paskola. I am more than pleased to testify that Paskola has worked wonders in my case, as I have no distress after eating, and eat whatever the appetite craves. I advise all like sufferers to use Paskola."

This is the story of P. A. Hank, of Valparaiso, Ind.: "Before I used Paskola I was very weak. I could not digest anything. I tried everything to gain strength but failed. My doctor told me to use Paskola and I am satisfied that it is the only think for a weak stomach.

"I have gained two pounds in a week. There is nothing that helps indigestion like Paskola. I have tried about twelve doctors and have been suffering more than twelve years.

"At the time I could work only two days a week. For nearly three years I spent all I had for doctoring and had given up hope."

Any up to-date druggist will furnish Paskola. If you want to know how it works send for free phamplet to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade street, New York.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month. Office hours from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Personal.

A young lady of seventeen summers, highly educated, refined, and of prepossessing appearance, desires to form the acquaintance of some nice young man, whom she would advise, if troubled with dyspepsia, to use that great blood purifier, Sulphur Bitters.

SAYS HE WAS HYPNOTIZED.

Odd Defense Made by a Man, Who Claims a Spinster Made Him Propose.

Harris Woronow, a young jeweler, doing business on Grand street near Graham avenue, who was arrested on an order issued by Judge Van Dyck in the city court in connection with an action for breach of promise brought by Miss Sophie Goodman, a middle aged spinster, who lives in Essex street, New York, was released today in $1,000 bond through the efforts of his counsel.

The case is one of romantic interest, and Woronow's many friends will read it with astonishment. In her affidavit Miss Goodman says she met the youthful jeweler in May, 1892, in New York, and that the acquaintance ripened quickly and resulted in mutual love and attachment; that he continually expressed his love for her and promised to make her his wife. The plaintiff claims the jeweler was in the habit of drinking to his prospective bride.

Miss Goodman says she waited a reasonable time for Woronow to keep his promise and marry her, and then she learned to her dismay that he was in love with another girl, who was said to be young, handsome and wealthy. Woronow met the younger girl while on an extended trip and was smitten at once and proposed marriage.

Finally, Miss Goodman says, Woronow told her of his love for the other girl and sent her a letter in which he said: "Do not trouble yourself any further about me. I will not and shall not marry you under any circumstances. If you persist, however, in threatening to arrest me, I will sell out my business and leave with my old sweetheart and fly from the state, where neither you nor any court would do me injury. You had better seek another husband and trouble me no further. Life with her is much sweeter to me than with you. This is my final answer."

Miss Goodman says her whole future is blighted because she was known everywhere as Woronow's future bride.

The young jeweler says that when the case comes up for trial there will be some spicy details. He declares that he was hypnotized by the spinster, and that under her mesmeric influence he was led to propose marriage while all the while he loved another but sweeter girl. He says he thinks she got him to propose solely to gain possession of a certain wedding ring which she saw in his show window.—Brooklyn Citizen.

WILL HE GET HER?

The Khedive of Egypt Wants to Marry One of the Sultan's Daughters.

The young khedive of Egypt is having a very uncomfortable time in Constantinople and is doubtless sorry that he ever went there. The sultan appears to take malicious delight in making the young man feel his inferiority and has carried this so far as to refuse to allow his daughter to be given in marriage to the common Egyptian pasha who owes his position to the support of infidel Englishmen. The khedive's mother, however, continues assiduously to intrigue in the harems on her son's behalf, and as she is admittedly a very clever woman it is believed that her persistency will ultimately be rewarded by success.

The sultan at present has only two recognized daughters of marriageable age. One is 13 years old, and the other is 10. It was suggested early in the negotiations that the sultan's daughter is forbidden by unwritten law to marry outside the limits of the Ottoman empire, but his majesty himself promptly disposed of that argument by declaring that Egypt is an integral part of his empire, and it is certainly recognized as such by all the European powers. If the sultan should relent, the marriage will take place in Constantinople after the khedive, by his suzerain's gracious permission, has taken a short holiday trip through Europe.

Unlike the khedive, young King Alexander was treated by the sultan with the greatest distinction and has returned to Servia more persuaded than ever that he is the greatest man in Europe. —Constantinople Letter.

UNEASY ABOUT HIAZINTOFF.

He Attempted to Kill a Privy Councilor and Has Escaped From Custody.

Private advices from St. Petersburg say that great uneasiness prevails in court circles there over the escape of the young man Hiazintoff, who a couple of months ago attempted to kill Privy Counselor Pobyedonoszeff. When in prison, Hiazintoff's demeanor was so strange that he was sent to an asylum for the insane and there kept under observation night and day in special care. On June 27 he pleaded that the terribly hot weather was killing him, and in consequence he was for the first time allowed to take exercise in the asylum grounds with the other inmates. On the same afternoon he managed to escape, evidently with the connivance of somebody within the asylum, and nothing has since been heard of him.

The uneasiness referred to is due to the belief that Hiazintoff will most certainly be heard from sooner or later in connection with some desperate deed. He is a militant nihilist, imbued with a fanatical belief in the necessity for shedding the blood of tyrants who stand in the way of the regeneration of his country, and he is utterly reckless of his own life. The police are confident that he will not attempt to leave Russia and are equally certain that he will not long remain idle.—London Cor. New York Sun.

Religious Enthusiasm Offended.

Eliza Bangs and Lucy Green, negroes, came up before the recorder yesterday afternoon for fighting.

"Why did you hit her, Lucy?" Judge Calhoun asked.

"'Cause, your honor, she up en tell that preacher not to give me any communion when he passes 'round de bread an wine yesterday."

Judge Calhoun wrote a $3 fine opposite her name.—Atlanta Constitution.

Grover Cleveland soliloquizing: "H'm, h'm. Let me see. Wasn't Henry Clay the duffer who said, 'better go a hundred miles than write a letter?'"

Cleveland, Gorman, the tariff bill and Democrats who really desire tariff reform have fallen on evil days, but David B. Hill, as the President's champion and defender, is having more fun than a country boy at his first circus.

Cleveland's luck seems to have deserted him. His letter to Chairman Wilson hopelessly muddled the tariff situation and his attempt to make peace with Gorman only made the Maryland Senator more savage. Worst of all, Senator Hill proposes to reply to Gorman and to defend the President from his attacks.

Yesterday was an exciting day in political circles in Washington. The President having heard that Senator Gorman intended to reply to the Wilson letter, asked him, Friday, to come to the White House. Mr. Gorman did not go until yesterday. The conference lasted for an hour. What was said is not known, but Mr. Gorman left at a white heat and when he reached the Senate discarded his type written speech and made an attack on the President which was undoubtedly much more savage than he had intended making before his interview at the White House ruffled his temper.

The Constitutional Convention's committee on Legislative Organization has gone into the gerrymandering business and has devised and will ask the convention to adopt a scheme of legislative apportionment in the interest of the Republican rural counties and at the expense of the Democratic cities that is more outrageously inequitable than anything of the kind ever attempted by Republican majorities in the Legislature. By this scheme the Senate would consist of fifty, instead of thirty-two members, and the Assembly of 150, instead of 128 members, as at present. The population of the State is placed, for this occasion, at 5,790,865. The ratio of apportionment for the Senate is 115,917. Kings county, with a population of at least 1,000,000, is allowed but seven senators and New York, with a population of not far from 1,900,000, is allotted but twelve senators, though seventeen would be the number to which it would be entitled under a fair apportionment. Erie county, with a population of 304 000, is allowed three senators, though according to the ratio of apportionment it is barely entitled to two. The reason for thus favoring Erie county is that the Republicans can safely count on two out of the three senators. Still more unfair and unjust is the apportionment allowed the Republican strongholds of western, northern and central New York, the senators which it is proposed to steal from the Democratic cities being allotted with a lavish hand to rotten boroughs which can be counted on to always give Republican majorities.

It may be taken for granted that this or some plan of apportionment equally unjust will be adopted by the convention, for it is a most regretable fact that the Republican majority in the convention has shown a settled purpose to grasp every partisan advantage in sight. Fortunately, however, the work of the convention is discredited in advance. It has shown such a conspicuous lack of ability, has been so evasive and so dilatory, and its members have shown so much more interest in their $10 a day than in the work that is before them, that the people of the State no longer manifest the slightest interest in in its doings, and so many antagonisms have been aroused that when the results of its partisan labors are submitted to the people for ratification or rejection, it may safely be assumed that the people will have none of it.

HILL DEFENDS CLEVELAND.

New York's Senior Senator as the President's Champion in the Senate.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Senate was crowded, to-day, in anticipation of further attacks on the President.

Mr. Hill addressed the Senate on the tariff situation. He declared that he agreed with Mr. Gorman that the country was confronted with a great crisis. After many long and weary months a bill had been passed that was neighter satisfactory to party nor the people, because it violated principles of party and didn't fulfil the party's pledges.

He declared he (Hill) was there to defend the President. He said he had the constitutional and legal right to send such a letter to Mr. Wilson. The statements in it were Democratic and honestly expressed.

Mr. Hill read part of the President's message of '87 to show what the President had said therein, in order to offset Gorman's insinuation, yesterday, that the President had shown by that message that he was not in favor of free raw material.

He defended the President at length, and declared that Gorman had no right to hold him responsible for the unofficial utterances of Secretary Carlisle. The President had called no Senator's name; he merely attacked the bill.

With regard to the income tax Mr. Hill declared that he would continue to oppose it. He was frequently applauded.

THE VIGILANT'S LUCKY DAY.

Britannia Badly Beaten in To-day's Race for a Hundred Guinea Cup.

By United Press.

ROCHE POINT, Ireland, July 24—With a light northeast wind and weather cloudy and rainy, Vigilant and Britannia started in another race to-day. The course was the same as yesterday. Britannia was slightly in the lead in crossing starting line, but Vigilant had weather berth and soon drew away, and on the last leg of the second round of the course was a minute and a half ahead, and finished four minutes, thirty-five seconds ahead.

To day's race is for the cup offered by the Royal Yacht Club, of Cork, valued at one hundred guineas.

AN OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE.

A Port Jervis Man Dying From the Effects of a Dose Taken to Relieve Pain.

Mr. John Ridgeway, an aged and respected citizen of Port Jervis, is in a dying condition as a result of an overdose of morphine.

He had been taking morphine tablets for rheumatic pains in the knees. Yesterday, failing to get relief after taking the usual dose, he took more of the tablets and also some morphine powder given him by a woman in the house.

Late in the afternoon, he was found in a stupor, from which he could not be aroused. His physician says he must have taken at least three grains of the drug, instead of one quarter of a grain as prescribed.

WOLF PIT.

Killed a Pilot—Finished Haying—Funeral of Miss Hockenberry—Other Notes

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Snakes and snake stories seem to be few this season. A pilot was killed the other day on the farm of Benjamin Hait.

—Mr. Eli Hallock has been confined to the house by a lame back.

—Among the farmers who have finished haying we notice the following: George Goldsmith, Eli Hallock and J. Farley.

—Grace Post, of Coleville, has been spending a few days at the home of Benjamin Hait.

—The welcome rain has come at last.

—The funeral of Miss Ella Hockenberry, at Beemerville, was attended by some from here. Miss Hockenberry formerly resided at Wolf Pit. Death is always cruel, but it seems most cruel when it takes away those just entering upon womanhood or manhood.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and sashings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and to stay.

SUCCESS WITH SUMMER BOARDERS

means attention to little things. A great deal depends upon the table, not merely the abundance of the food, but its quality, the skill with which it is prepared and the neatness and taste with which it is served. Then comes the question of dessert. It is the dessert which leaves the most lasting impression. A dish of good Ice Cream is relished by almost everyone, but the Ice Cream MUST BE GOOD. Above all the Flavor must be perfect. Don't use poor Flavors at any price. The palate is quick to note an insult of this kind. It is the Flavor which makes or mars the Ice Cream. McMonagle & Rogers' Pure Extract Vanilla makes the Ice Cream a success every time. For many years it has been the favorite with the best housekeepers in America. It is sold by the best grocers from Maine to California.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

PROCEEDINGS OF AN ADJOURNED SESSION MONDAY NIGHT.

Highland Avenue Sewer Assessment Confirmed—Invited to Ellenville—All Bids for Lighting Rejected—The Proposed New Street—A Motion to Discontinue Proceedings Lost—Don't Want Any More Executive Sessions.

An adjourned session of the Common Council was held last evening. Present, President Dorrance and Alderman Funnell, Greene, Luddington, Mance and Reed.

HIGHLAND AVENUE SEWER ASSESSMENT CONFIRMED.

The meeting was originally intended as a special session for the purpose of hearing objections, if any, to the assessments on account of the Highland avenue sewer, and there being none the assessment was confirmed.

INVITED TO ELLENVILLE.

Waalkill Engine Company asked permission to take its parade carriage to Ellenville on the occasion of the annual parade, August 9th. Permission granted.

An invitation of Wallkill Engine Company to go to Ellenville, on Aug. 9th, as the company's guests, was received and accepted.

A communication was read from Alfred Allee calling attention to his claim for damages by the stopping of the sewer basin in front of his house on North street.

BIDS FOR LIGHTING REJECTED.

Mr. Luddington offered a resolution that inasmuch as bids for lighting streets were not handed in for several weeks after the advertisement appeared, all bids be rejected before opening, and new bids be advertised for. The resolution was adopted without opposition.

THE PROPOSED NEW STREET AND THE COMMISSION.

A communication from the commissioners in the matter of the new street was read. It was to the effect that the commission was unable to make an assessment that would be satisfactory to all concerned. The cost would be about $10,000 and it would be unjust to assess this upon adjoining property and according to the charter it cannot be assessed against the whole city, and therefore it was suggested that the proceedings be abandoned entirely or that the commissioners make the awards and then let the matter rest until a special act could be passed by the Legislature, allowing the assessment of the greater part of the expense upon the city. The commissioners stated they would gladly resign, but in that event others would be appointed under the order of the court and the same conditions would exist as now. The communication closed with a request for information.

Mr. Reed offered the following resolution:

RESOLUTION TO DISCONTINUE PROCEEDINGS.

Whereas, The commissioners appointed to appraise the benefits and advantages incurred in opening the new street in the city of Middletown, running from East Main street to Sprague avenue in said city, through the lands of Mrs. C. A. Smith, Annie R. Jeannot and William K. Stansbury, have reported and certified to the Common Council that it is impossible to find that any property is benefited by said proposed new street and improvement commensurate to the damages sustained, and it is impracticable to make any assessment of damages.

Resolved, That the resolution heretofore passed by the Common Council, opening said new street, is hereby rescinded and the proceeding to open said street is hereby discontinued and abandoned; and the City Attorney is hereby instructed to cause the proper order for the discontinuance and withdrawal of said proceedings, to be obtained from the court upon due notice to the said commission and to all parties who have appeared in the said proceeding before the commission.

FAVOR OPENING THE STREET.

Mr. Greene said it was not true, as stated by the Commissioners, that taxpayers did not want the street. He knew of many who did and had found no one opposed, except those affected in a financial way. He said he would step into the shoes of some opposed to the street and would find others to take the balance of the property.

Mr. Funnell said he thought action should not be taken hastily. He regarded it as a much needed public improvement desired by the taxpayers. He knew this to be the fact after having talked with many people on the subject.

Mr. Luddington said there was one piece of property now worth $750 that would be worth $9,000 if the new street was put through.

The Mayor was present and spoke against the opening of the street, and especially in reply to the remarks of Mr. Greene, who refused to discuss the matter with him. He said the Mayor had his say before the Commissioners and that was enough.

Mr. Mance seconded the resolution of Mr. Reed.

LOST ON A TIE VOTE.

The vote resulted in a tie, Messrs. Dorrance, Reed, and Mance voting aye, and Messrs. Funnell, Greene and Luddington, no.

The President failed to declare the resolution lost, as he should have done, but at the suggestion of Mr. Reed, said the matter would go over to the next meeting.

DON'T BELIEVE IN EXECUTIVE SESSIONS.

Mr. Reed moved to go into executive session.

Mr. Greene wanted to know what it was for.

Mr. Mance also wanted to know and said he was opposed to any more executive sessions by the Council. He had had experience enough of that kind. He had voted in executive session and his action had been reported on the street within ten minutes.

Mr. Reed withdrew his motion.

Mr. Mance suggested that the matter it was desired to consider, which he was informed was in reference to the settlement of claims against the city, be referred to the Law Committee.

The City Attorney said the Law Committee had already taken action and it only remained for final action by the Council.

Mr. Greene moved to adjourn. The motion was lost.

AGAIN THE EXECUTIVE SESSION FAILS.

Mr. Reed again moved to go into executive session.

Mr. Luddington was outside of the rail and his vote was not counted. Mr. Mance demanded a call of the roll and again there was a tie, Messrs. Dorrance, Reed and Funnell voting aye, and Messrs, Greene, Luddington and Mance, nay.

Mr. Reed wanted the opponents to state their objections to an executive session.

Mr. Mance said he objected to excluding reporters and then having incorrect reports of the business of the executive sessions go upon the streets as had been done.

Mr. Mance moved that the matter which it was desired to bring before the executive session, be referred to the Law Committee, to report at the next regular meeting.

On motion of Mr. Reed, Council adjourned.

THE WHEELMEN'S MEET.

A Big Time Expected—Some Fast Bicyclers to Participate—Sharp Contest for the Orange County Championship—The Officials and the Entries.

The wheelmen's meet at the Campbell track, to-morrow, promises to be an event second in importance only to the horsemen's meeting next month.

Among others who will be present are Messrs. G. Fred Royce, of Passaic, and E. L. Blauvelt, of Newark, who are regarded as the two best wheelmen in New Jersey. While all the races will be interesting it is understood that a hard contest will be made for the one mile championship of Orange county.

The races will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TRACKS LAID ON BENTON AVENUE.

Work Begun Yesterday Afternoon, and Continued Until 10 O'clock, Last Night—Nothing Done in Front of the Premises of Property Holders Who Had Refused Consent—Passengers to Midway Park to Walk Across a Gap of 175 Feet.

At 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, Capt. Rockwell, of the Electric Railway Company, walked through Benton avenue to the corner of Sprague avenue, made a signal with his hand and at least seventy-five men appeared on the scene armed with picks and shovels and began digging for a railway track.

In two minutes afterwards every resident of Benton avenue was in the street or on their stoops, watching the proceedings. The news spread rapidly and in a few minutes a crowd began to gather from all parts of the city.

While the men dug and threw out the dirt, teams were hauling ties and rails and very rapid progress was made, as the roadbed of the street is underlaid by sand, which was easily removed.

The impression that went abroad was that the railway company intended to steal a march on residents of the avenue and force its way through the street, selecting a late hour in the day to begin, to avoid the possibility of an injunction being obtained before the work was finished. This, however, was not the case.

Capt. Rockwell, to whom a reporter applied for information stated that it was not the intention to lay a track all the way through the street, but only in front of the premises of those who had given their consent, and that the object of beginning late in the afternoon, was to cause as little inconvenience to residents of the street as possible. With the good start that could be had during the four hours of daylight and by working until bed time, most of the work could be done and the street cleared up early, to-day.

It so happens that the eight properties, whose owners refuse their consent, all lie together, four on each side of the street, directly opposite each other, and the plans of the company were to lay the track from Academy avenue to the line between L. B. Scott and W. C. F. Bastian, and from Sprague avenue to the line of Chas. G. Dill on one side and J. J. Huyler on the other leaving a space of 175 feet between.

When the line is ready for operation to Midway Park, passengers will ride to the end of the track on Benton avenue and walk 175 feet to the car waiting on the other portion of the line.

It is possible that the company might have been prevented from laying the track in any part of the street if an injunction had been obtained in time, but they claim to be justified in their action by reason of the fact that they have a franchise for the street and the consent of property owners as far as their tracks are laid.

If the passage of cars through the street would be an annoyance to residents it is doubtful if the transfer system will not prove to be an infinitely greater annoyance, and all will heartily wish the cars to run through without stopping to exchange passengers, as is now intended.

The track will all be completed, to-day, and the street will be cleaned up, and the poles set and the wires strung, to-morrow.

The feed wire, which will supply the current to the Midway Park line, will run from the power house through Prince street to East Main, and thence along the line of the road to the park.

The officers of the company expect to run cars to the park by August 6th at the latest.

AT MIDWAY PARK.

A Restaurant to be Erected—Contract Signed for the Roller Coaster—Shooting Gallery Privilege Let—To be Opened August 6th.

Improvements are going on at Midway Park at a rapid rate. A building 56 feet square, in size and style the same as the pavilion, is being erected by Alderman Sinsabaugh. It will be connected with the pavilion by a covered corridor 100 feet long, the straight lines of which will be relieved by an octagonal pavilion in the centre.

The shooting gallery privilege has been let to a Middletown man and a gallery 50 feet long is in course of construction.

A Philadelphia party has signed a contract to construct a roller coaster, or minature switchback road from the top of Hopper's Hill to the river, and guarantee to expend at least $3,000 in its construction.

An interesting feature of the park when completed, will be an observatory sixty feet high, on top of Hopper's Hill, the platform of which will be 250 feet above the river and command a magnificent view of the surrounding country.

A Fireman's Painful Hurt.

Mr. C. F. Darrow, a member of the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, while working at Ritter & Beyea's fire, Sunday night, stepped upon a nail, which penetrated his heel to a considerable depth. He is suffering a great deal of inconvenience from the accident.

Dividend Declared on Crawford Railway Stock.

The directors of the Middletown and Crawford Railroad Company, at a meeting in New York, yesterday, declared a semi-annual dividend of three per cent. for the past six months, payable August 1st.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

BATTLE IN THE HEAVENS.

Strange Visions Which a Kansas Church Member Swears He Saw.

In the way of seeing sights and viewing visions a Dickinson county farmer has laid claim to first prize. He has a statement that is not only unique in every respect, but is told with startling attention to detail. H. W. J. Smith, a long time resident of the county, living seven or eight miles from town, publishes in The Evangelical Visitor, the church organ of the Brethren in Christ, printed here, this week over his own signature and attested by an affidavit a story of his strange visitation. He says that in company with B. W. Blue, a neighboring farmer, a few nights ago he stepped out of the house at Andrew Thompson's, three miles from Manchester and 15 from Abilene. As they looked at the sky, which was clear, suddenly something like a large luminous ball appeared in the northeast about 30 degrees above the eastern horizon.

"Is it a comet?"

"Is it a meteor?"

The questions were asked simultaneously. "But," says Mr. Smith, "there was no time for answer. Just then it shot westward, meteorlike, about three degrees and immediately returned on the same line to its first position. We had only time to say, 'It merits watching,' when it opened as a casket with a hinge, presenting on its right a cross—most beautiful, golden, corrugated and furbished. At the left of this was a living man clad in citizen's style, with a plain crown on his head. His form was symmetrical, his countenance bright and permissive—a perfect son of man.

"The casket soon closed, and away it went to the eastern horizon like a meteor. There it oscillated as if for time to be emptied and refilled, returning on the same path to its original place. It opened, presenting a portly man, with sword and scabbard on his thigh, a cross on his breast and on his head a crown of many glittering jewels, like stars. He looked beautiful, but was partly hidden by an obtrusive rider on a black or dark horse.

"These were hidden or overshadowed by a haughty woman in costly royal attire, who seemed to rule over both. Then these were eclipsed by the coming of a military leader with sword in right hand, elevated ready to strike, the scabbard cast away, a cross on his right breast and a square and compass on his left. On his head was a military hat, the crown blended with the man's hair. On each side of the man's head was a horn, and a cross was erect behind him. He stepped out and forth and began action, never stopping to rest or turning his back on the enemy. He retreated eastward to within about five degrees of the horizon, then began to advance with heavy martial tread, like one tramping the wine press and wielding his sword.

"About 11:40 p. m. as we stood watching the phenomenon, blood was seen to stream forth from the casket and spread far and wide, apparently 200 miles in extent. Mr. Blue, who is a veteran of the war, said it was like the blood of the battlefield, only a deeper red. The warrior seemed at times to be in blood to his knees and above.

"At 12:15 I retired, but Mr. Blue remained watching until 2 a. m. and says the warrior was yet parading the skies and was joined by another, who advanced to meet him from the east. The casket vanished after this warrior stepped out. Myself and Mr. Blue saw the first and second scenes. Others saw part of the second. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Blue saw all the second."

Mr. Smith adds to his statement, "morally sworn," as he says, as follows: "I hereby certify the above to be given as penned as seen by me. Others may have seen more or less points."

The Visitor, usually very conservative on such matters, calls attention to the description editorially.—Abilene Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A BABY WITHOUT EYES.

It Has Two More Fingers, However, Than Are Generally Given to Little Girls.

A wonderful bit of humanity has taken up its abode at 154 Orchard street. This little girl baby was born on Saturday without eyes or optic nerve.

As if this unfortunate condition of affairs was not enough, the baby is afflicted with more fingers than is usually given to mankind. From the little finger of each hand is an extra finger of perfect shape and size, and excepting that it points in an opposite direction to the other fingers is apparently formed to remain for a lifetime.

In all other respects the little girl is healthy, weighs eight pounds and is as pretty and well behaved a child as could be found anywhere.

Its parents, Mr. and Mrs. Juda Grossman, live on the third floor at 154 Orchard street. This is the eighth year of their married life, and during that time three children have been born, who have all died.

The eyeless infant was examined in the Post Graduate Medical hospital yesterday by Drs. F. F. Reyling and Charles A. Tama before a class of 50 students. It was conclusively proved that the child has no sight whatever, the cause being the arrest of development before birth. Dr. Lander, who is attending the child, has been searching old medical manuscripts for records of similar cases, but the only success he has met with was the finding of a mere mention in an old French natural history by Buneau of a case where a male child was born without eyes.—New York Herald.

Bad Habits of Sleeping.

Persons can easily get into bad habits of sleeping just as well as eating or drinking. When the healthy body has had its required amount of sleep, it announces the fact by causing the sleeper to awake, and if from habit or desire more sleep is taken at that time it is an excess, just the same as overloading the stomach is an excess in eating. Insomnia or sleeplessness can very often be traced to impairment of the digestive organs.—New York Dispatch.

A WONDERFUL HORSE.

Educated In America and Now Delighting London Audiences.

It cannot be said of the horse, as Heine said of the monkey, that it does not talk for fear of being put to work. Probably the ultimate degree to which the training of animals may be carried is reached in the case of the talking horse that literally made its bow to the public recently at the Crystal palace. Mazeppa is an Arab, educated, so to say, in America, and its extraordinary capacity for learning was manifested before an astonished and enthusiastic audience.

In the strict meaning of the word, the horse does not talk, but is capable of answering questions addressed to it. It even understands French or German when it hears it spoken, though it does not speak these languages, in which it is not less accomplished than some human beings. The animal not only appears to think, but is capable of expressing itself intelligibly by signs. It has a special talent for arithmetic.

The audience was invited promiscuously to call out a number of figures which were arranged in rows on a blackboard, and Mazeppa, after looking over them, gave the sum of the addition by pawing the ground in every case the exact number of times necessary to indicate the result. As a mere trick this would be surprising enough; but, considering the figures were taken at random from among the audience, ladies and gentlemen, and, in particular, eager little boys, contributing, collusions seemed out of the question, and Mazeppa's good faith was established by the still more remarkable achievement that followed.

The horse was directed to count the number of persons in given rows of the audience, and having done so more than once proceeded to indicate the number of women and the number of men in any particular row. Having passed this examination, Mazeppa stood forth to answer any question to which it was possible to give a reply directly, by means of a shake of the head, signifying either "Yes" or "No," or in figures. Thus, the day of the week and the month of the year, or the date of a birthday, revealed to the trainer, Professor H. S. McGuire, was promptly found by the horse, any attempt to deceive it meeting always with a decidedly emphatic negative.

This astounding entertainment concluded with an imitation by Mazeppa of a young man paying his addresses to a young lady. The horse's affectation of tenderness adds a very humorous touch to an excellent piece of pantomime. The sagacious Mazeppa is simply a wonder.—London News.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr Samuel Pitcher That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

How a Chance Advertisement Put a Young Man on His Feet.

On South Clark street there is the office of a scientist who restores hair to bald heads and forces beards and mustaches at reasonable rates. Thursday afternoon he had a lady visitor. She entered the office and wrung his hand with tears of joy and gratitude in her eyes, and he began to think she was going to kiss him and claim him as her long lost twin brother.

"Madam," he said as he edged away from her, "if there is anything you would have me do for you ——"

"Ah, professor," she cried, "you have already done enough to make me your servant forever. You have restored joy to a desolate home and healed the wound in a widow's heart. Let me tell you about it. I have a son—a noble youth of 20 summers. Until a year ago his life was a garden of sunshine and roses. Then he began to pine away and became a wreck of his former self. His cross was greater than he could bear. His whiskers wouldn't grow."

"Sad indeed," murmured the professor as he fondled a bottle of his mixture, "yet, madam, there is a balm in Gilead, and"—

"I know it, I know it. Oh, it was pitiful to see that gifted and handsome boy squinting sideways into a mirror to see if he wasn't getting a good stand of whiskers, only to find that the gophers and weevil had destroyed the crop. It was a dagger in a fond mother's heart to see him shave in the darkness and shave in the light shave in his weakness and shave in his might, and moaning, 'What shall the harvest be?' You, professor, are not a mother and cannot realize the anguish I felt Whenever the wind blew strong, he would wring his hands and cry, 'Ah, mother if I only had whiskers to round out my life!' He was on the verge of suicide when I saw your advertisement in The Weekly Holocaust, and I purchased a bottle of your valuable remedy."

"And what effect did it have?"

The lady drew herself up with all the dignity of a mother who is proud of her firstborn as she replied:

"He has just accepted a lucrative position as [illegible] lady in a Madison street museum."—Chicago Tribune.

A Suggestion.

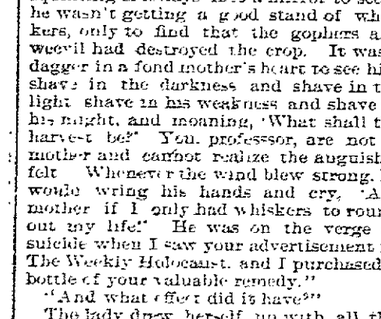
He was a San Francisean in the played out city of London. He came from the west where he had developed that independence and self reliance which, combined with good looks and $20 goldpieces, made a man superior to all Europe. He strolled with graceful dignity into a gilded bar over which presided a divinity of superb physical form, but still a woman, with that air which only an English barmaid can possibly put on—an air of mingled conceit, pride, coquetry and humility. She awaited his order. He was dressed in the latest fashion. He threw the lapel of his coat back with a proud gesture, and fixing his fascinating eye on the bar beauty he said:

"Tell me, my pretty maid, what can you suggest for a man who ate a Welsh rabbit last night and does not feel well this morning?"

She did not smile She did not appear to be affected by the appearance of his swelling chest or his wicked eye. She simply said:

"Why didn't you beat two Welsh rabbits and let 'em chase heach hother?"—Exchange.

A Conundrum.



Charley—Allow me, aunt: Mr. and Miss Knicker-Bocker.

Charley's Aunt—Indeed, and may I be informed which is Mr and which is—a—Miss Knicker-Bocker'—Pick Me Up.

Barred Out.

A Wellesley college girl tells of a bright saying of one of their number. The class was selecting a motto, and "To thy own self be true" was suggested after a number of others had been disapproved of and met with quite a favorable reception till a young lady arose and said she hardly thought that appropriate for a young ladies' seminary. "For it shall follow, as the night the day, thou wilt not then be false to any man." Amid great applause they discarded that motto.—Argonaut.

His Dearest Possessions Safe.

"James," whispered the startled wife, "wake up! I hear somebody in the cellar."

"It won't do him any good," grumbled the man of the house, turning over and composing himself to sleep again. "I took the potatoes to the office this afternoon and locked them in the vault."—Chicago Tribune.

Sympathetic.

Dora—Papa said we mustn't encourage tramps, because one tells all the rest.

Clara—I couldn't help it, he looked so starved.

"What did you give him?"

"Half a cream puff and some chewing gum."—Good News

A Method of Measurement.

"Did you have a good time on your two weeks' vacation?" said one young man to another.

"I must have had," was the wearily spoken reply. "I left home with $200, and I haven't a cent left."—Washington Star.

Correct.

"Can any little boy here," asked the visitor, "give me an example of the expansion of substances by heat?"

"I can," said Tommy. "Our dog's tongue is twice as long now as it was last winter."—Indianapolis Journal.

Impossible.

Mildred—I wouldn't marry the best man in the world!

Mr. Suitor—There is no danger. The bride never gets the best man.—Tit Bits.

Seaside and Shop.

With a sigh that is soft as the zephyr at morn
She greets the young man in his wooing,
At home he's a salesman; she's rich and high born;
But his pathway with smiles she is strewing.

But there's difference vast between seaside and town;
Experience has many sad scholars;
Next fall at the counter she'll stand, with a frown,
While he murmurs, "That silk is four dollars."

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Is It Bad Luck to Kill a Cat?—The Tale of Woe Told by a Cat Slayer—A Case in Which There Was Trouble Because the Cat Wasn't Killed.

A young man in this city is now a firm beleiver in the old superstition that the killing of a cat brings bad luck. He exterminated a member of the feline family that had been killing his chickens, and the following day his employer discharged him for no apparent cause. He didn't feel so very bad about this, for he had in view several other jobs that he considered preferable, any of which he supposed he could get for the asking. But whatever his chances may have been previously, now that he had killed a cat, he found that nobody wanted him. He even offered to work for his board until something better should turn up, but luck was so dead against him that he could not find work even on such terms.

In addition to his disappointment on account of his enforced idleness, the young man stood in constant dread of the owner of the deceased cat who, he had been told, was looking for him with blood in his eye. At last they met, and the young man's account of the meeting is as follows: "I saw him coming on the street, there was no place to dodge into and no chance to run; so I stepped behind a tree hoping he would pass without seeing me, but he had his eye on me and as he came up, brought his hand down on my shoulder like a sledge hammer and, in a voice that sounded to me like the roar of a lion said: 'What did you kill my cat for?' I replied in a quaking voice: 'Because he killed my chickens: but I'm sorry I did it,' and as I started out on another search for work, I made a vow that I would never kill another cat as long as I live, not even if they ate up all my own and all my neighbors' chickens."

I've killed a few cats myself, at one time and another, but I only recall one instance in which the slaughter brought me bad luck and, strictly speaking, the bad luck in that case was due not to the slaughter, but to the fact that I did not make the slaughter sudden and complete enough. It was when I was a chunk of a boy, just big enough to be allowed to use a gun, and there being a cat about the house that seemed to have survived its usefulness I "decreed death unto it," as Ceasar was wont to say. I put an extra heavy charge into the gun, an old muzzle loader, and getting off a long ways, blazed away at the cat. The heavy charge caused the gun to kick up a little or my aim was not good for, instead of filling the cat's head with shot, the charge merely tore off part of the scalp and possibly part of the skull. I saw the cat keel over and, assuming that I had killed it, I went to put the gun back in its place as proud as only a boy can be when he has shot something. The cat, however came to in a few minutes and having at least eight lives left it took its bloody head into the house and seeking a soft place on which to rest its aching brow, proceeded to muss up every room to which it could get access. When the trail of blood left by the beast was discovered and the cat run down and found, still alive, on a bed, I was in the very worst kind of disrepute and though too big to be thrashed, the killing of that cat brought me anything but good luck.

Hard Work at State Camp, This Week

The S C is authority for the statement that the 13th Regiment and 5th Battalion, which are at State Camp, this week, will be given an afternoon battalion drill every day during the week, as well as the usual morning drills.

There is no reason for this; other than lack of discipline among the men, or a lack of knowledge of the duties. Judging from the condition of some of the men who marched into camp last Saturday, it may be "lack of discipline."

Both Legs Cut Off.

John Carey, New York and New England yardmaster at Fishkill, walked off the top of a moving car and, falling on the track in front of its wheels, was run over and had both legs cut off. He was taken to Highland Hospital, but it was feared that his injuries would prove fatal.

Funeral of Mrs. Cox.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Cox took place at St. Paul's M. E. Church at 2:30 o'clock, this afternoon, Rev. Dr. Darwood officiating. Among the floral tributes were a pillow and a sheaf of wheat. The bearers were Messrs. A. T. Squier, J. G. Harding, J. N. Kellogg, W. H. Knapp, Warren Ridgeway and A. P. Howell.

Take it as you get it, in liquid or powder form, only see that you get Simmons Liver Regulator. It cures sick headache, biliousness and Constipation. You need not make a tea of it. A spoonful of the liquid, or a pinch of the powder, just before going to bed will insure refreshing sleep, and the next morning you feel as though you had a new lease on life. Simple package powder, 25 cents.

SMALLPOX IN NEWBURGH

One Case of the Genuine Article and Another of Varioloid.

The city of Newburgh has two cases of smallpox. The first case discovered was that of Mrs. William Gaskell, wife of a city expressman, who was taken quite sick on Saturday. Physicians who were called, Sunday, found her in a condition to arouse their suspicions. Yesterday morning the Health Officer visited the woman and found her suffering from a pronounced case of smallpox.

The other case is that of a boy named Heuthe, aged 14 years, living on City Terrace. By reason of previous vaccination the disease in this case is of the milder form, known as varioloid, but none the less contagious. The boy has been ill for four or five days and doubtless in his case, as well as the woman's, many persons have been exposed to the contagion.

Mrs. Gaskell has several children, one an infant, and there are other families in the same house. She is supposed to have contracted the disease while shopping in New York, about two weeks ago.

The boy is believed to have been inoculated by berry pickers, with whom he has been working.

The health authorities will do all in their power to quarantine the houses and prevent the spread of the disease. The patients will be removed to the quarters for contagious diseases at the Alms House.

MRS. HALLIDAY IN THE ASYLUM.

Transferred Yesterday from Dannemora Prison to the Matteawan Asylum.

Lizzie Halliday was transferred, yesterday, from Dannemora prison to the Asylum for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan.

A stateroom in a parlor car was reserved, and she, accompanied by a physician and two nurses, occupied it until Fishkill Landing was reached, when the party alighted. Mrs. Halliday has been closely watched and, to prevent the concealment about her person of some weapon, has been searched daily.

The sum of $3 20 was found in her pocket. Where or how she got it was a mystery to the attendants. During the journey on the train she was tractable, her conduct being in marked contrast with her violence when she was taken to prison. Her repulsive and idiotic appearance excited comment among all who saw her taken to and from the train.

DISTINGUISHED PRISONERS.

Mrs. Halliday One of the Stars of Matteawan Asylum—Orange County's Record Breaker.

From the Newburgh Telegram.

Mrs. Halliday ought to come near being the most distinguished prisoner in the State penal institutions. The Matteawan Asylum now, without doubt, contains the most distinguished male and female prisoner in the State, or perhaps country—Oliver Curtis Perry and Mrs. Halliday. Just at the present Mr. Billie Kerwin, Esq., who knows something about the schooners that pass in the day time, is Orange county's champion short-distance prisoner. The next time Mr. Bill gets in jail fifty-two will be placed opposite his name.

UNIONVILLE

Next Sunday's Services in the Baptist Church—Working on the Reservoir—New Buildings—The Minisink Silk Factory—Personal Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Rev. William J. Morey, of Burnt Hills, N. Y., will preach in the Baptist Church, next Sunday morning and evening, Mr. and Mrs. Morey will spend the present week in this vicinity, and will be present at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting and the Young People's meeting Friday evening.

—A large number of men are employed on the reservoir of the Unionville Water Works Company.

—Albert VanFleet is erecting a handsome residence on First avenue. When completed this will be one of the finest dwellings in the village. Mr. Welsh, of Amity, is the contractor and builder. Mr. VanFleet has also erected a neat cottage on First avenue, which is occupied by Mr. Shaw, Superintendent of the Unionville Silk Ribbon Factory.

—Wilbur VanFleet's cottage, on First avenue, is nearing completion, as is the building of the Minisink Silk Ribbon Factory, on the same avenue. The machinery for this factory is arriving and our second silk ribbon mill will soon be in operation. Mr. Vreeland, of Paterson, will be the superintendent.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Hanford and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan C. Hanford have been visiting friends in Newburgh.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by J. L. Mills, druggist, Middletown, N. Y.

OTISVILLE.

The Fresh Air Children—Red Riding Hood—An Old Fashioned Thunder Storm—Personal Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS AND MERCURY.

—The fresh air children assigned to our place arrived, Wednesday, and are being cared for by Mr. and Mrs. John Dodd, Sr., and will no doubt return filled with enthusiasm over Orange county hospitality and its abundance of fresh air.

—With the thermometer well up in the nineties the concert of Red Riding Hood was not as well patronized as its merits deserved. Mr. Campbell, who has devoted many years to such work, is regarded as a first-class instructor. He expects to give the concert at Bloomingburgh, in the near future. It is hoped that a large audience will be present.

—I was reading in an exchange that what was needed was an old fashioned thunder storm, a booming, howling, rattle-te-bang shower. Surely that writer's wishes would have been gratified on Wednesday last, if he had been in this locality, for the storm certainly met all requirements. But it did not bring with it the cooling air one expected after such a tempest. The cool wave has reached us at last, but too far behind to be attributed to the storm.

—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick are visiting her parents, at Bayonne, N. J. Rev. Mr. Conkling filled the pulpit here very acceptably on Sunday.

—Mr. William Smith and son, Willie, of Brooklyn, were at N. W. Beyea's Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Smith returned on Monday, while Master Willie remained for a more extended visit.

—Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman have been pleasant guests of Mrs. Frasier for a few days. They have been spending a part of their vacation among friends in this vicinity.

—The many friends of Mr. Samuel Beyea, in this village, heard with regret of the loss of his store by fire, Sunday night.

—Mrs. Godfrey, who has been visiting friends here, for some time, returned to Middletown, Sunday. She was called there by the illness of her brother, James B. Wiggins.

—Mr. and Mrs. John L. Wiggins, of Middletown, were in town, last week.

NEW HAMPTON.

Earning a Bad Name for Our Village—Campers Return Home—First in All Things.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Our village has always borne a fairer reputation than its sister, Denton, but it seems that the order of things is about to be reversed. When a gambling den is run from Saturday night, until 6 o'clock Sunday morning, it is time that it should be stopped. If this does not prove a word spoken in season, we will be heard from in another direction in the near future.

—The party of boys from Goshen, who have been camping along the banks of the Wallkill, for the past two weeks, pulled up their tent pins, Saturday, and returned home.

—Charles Borland has completed haying. He appears to be first in all things.

CRYSTAL RUN.

A Good Hay Crop—Needs a Roof—Sick With Typhoid Fever—Successful Fishermen.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Mr. Augustus Ireland is spending a few days with his family in this place.

—Many farmers have finished haying, while a few have hardly commenced. All report an extra good yield.

—Miss Cora Randall, of New York, has been visiting at the residence of S. H. Johnson.

—The Crystal Run milk platform should have a roof over it. At this season of the year the milk train is seldom on time, and often the milk is exposed to the hot sun for an hour before the train arrives.

—Mr. W. N. White is lying very sick at his home with typhoid fever. Dr. Conner, of Middletown, is attending him.

—A. H. Harlow, Frank Smith and Stephen Harlow have returned from a few days' fishing in Sullivan county and report a large catch of pickerel.

The Trouble Over.

A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves she is almost entirely well." Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call at John J. Chambers, 21 West Main Street opp. Runyons grocery, sole agent, and get a trial package free. Large sizes 50c and 25c.

The Doctors Endorse It.

At a regular meeting of the Genesee County (N. Y.) Medical Society, the physicians of the county passed a vote of thanks for samples of Gilmore's Aromatic Wine, which had been presented to the society, and said that they recognized the remedy as being adapted to a large class of summer diseases. Physicians everywhere recommend this excellent medicine, especially to their lady patients. Sold by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

LABRADOR EXPEDITION.

Professor Hite Will Lead a Party Into the Unknown Interior.

Among the various expeditions this year which have for their object northern exploration, the one commanded by Professor Charles E. Hite of the University of Pennsylvania to Labrador is of much interest. Dr. Dawson, in his essay upon the unexplored parts of Canada, called attention to the fact that the greatest area of America still almost unknown lies within the boundaries of Labrador. It is the intention of Professor Hite to take a party of 10 men to the interior of this country for the purpose of exploration and scientific research. The party will be taken north in the steamer Newfoundland by Dr. F. A. Cook of Brooklyn, who will soon be on his way to the arctic regions. The explorers will be landed at Rigolette, Labrador, about July 4, whence a boat will take them to Goose bay, at the mouth of the Hamilton or Grand river.

Here the party will divide. Four men, including Professor Hite, will advance up the river, carrying their boats and provisions around the numerous and dangerous rapids. The remainder of the party will remain at headquarters on Goose bay and explore the region in that neighborhood, paying special attention to collecting the flora and fauna of the country.

Excursions will be made in the Mealy mountains for geological purposes. Mr. Low of the Canadian geological survey has found indications of vast deposits of the richest iron ore, and it is not at all improbable that more valuable mineral will be found on more extended research. Professor Hite and his assistants, after reaching the grand falls of the Grand river, which were found by Mr. Bryant to be 316 feet high, will determine their latitude and longitude and will then push on to the interior tablelands, determine their nature, elevation, geological and other features.

After this short reconnoissance the party will return to the Nimipi river and expore that to Lake Aswanipi and from there to the gulf of St. Lawrence. Should there be no southern outlet to this lake the party will join the collecting division at Goose bay, where they will be picked up by Dr. Cook on his return from Greenland. Great care is being exercised in selecting material, such as camping utensils, provisions and boats, for the journey. A large number of the articles used by the expedition will be of aluminium. Professor Hite, though a young man, has made a reputation as a naturalist and collector, having a wide range of travel. He served as naturalist on the Peary relief expedition in 1892.
